

This is a test with a simulated drop cap. A drop cap is a large initial letter that drops below the first line of a paragraph. The drop cap should be considered part of the first line.

This is another test with a simulated drop cap. We use large amounts of whitespace to defeat the PDFium text-run logic.